Executive Summary

A South Dakota State Library for the 21st Century

Our Vision

Effective, well-resourced libraries are critical to the social and economic development of our rural and metropolitan communities and essential to the vitality of our democracy.

The South Dakota State Library (SDSL):

- Supports the work of all South Dakota libraries through education and advocacy.
- Works to expand and strengthen citizen access to library services.
- Digitizes specific specialized collections and state publications.
- Improves the work of state government by providing timely access to information.

Our Mission

South Dakota State Library: serving state government, empowering South Dakota libraries, and enriching the lives of South Dakota residents.

Plan for 21st Century Libraries

Since 1913 the South Dakota State Library has worked to strengthen libraries and to expand access to library services to all South Dakotans. By law (SDCL 14-1), the State Library:

- Supplements the services of local libraries.
- Increases the proficiency of librarians by providing training and continuing education.
- Provides specialized services or materials to individuals and libraries.
- Provides access to specialized digitized collections and state documents.
- Serves the research needs of state government employees.

In collaboration with other libraries and organizations, the South Dakota State Library plays a vital role in the collective effort to:

- Preserve our state's heritage and provide more accessible resources.
- Build and strengthen communities by enabling citizens to engage in lifelong learning.
- Promote information literacy/fluency among our citizens with the widest use of modern technology possible.
- Link communities to new economic opportunities.
- Promote access among diverse groups of people.

Although the mission of the South Dakota State Library has not altered substantially over the past century, the means and strategies used to achieve our goals have adapted to the tools and technologies of the times. As South Dakota becomes more deeply engaged in the global knowledge-based economy of the 21st century, the need to adapt has never been more necessary.

Developing a New Strategic Plan

On July 13, 2017, the Institute of Museum and Library Services approved the new South Dakota State Library LSTA Five-Year Plan: 2018 – 2022. In the summer and fall of 2018, a statewide satisfaction survey of the resources and services the State Library provides was conducted. (See Appendix A.) Consultant Pat Wagner of Pattern Research in Denver, Colorado, was hired to facilitate and lead 12 open forums across the state and one online forum throughout the fall of 2018. Due to weather and scheduling constraints, the forums were not completed until the fall of 2019. Ms. Wagner's final report was submitted on Nov. 4, 2019.

Alignment with the Department of Education's New Strategic Plan

The South Dakota State Library's strategic plan will align with the four principles in the South Dakota Department of Education's (DOE) new strategic plan which are: Maximizing and Building Relationships, Championing Excellence, Achieving Effectiveness, and Cultivating Professional Culture.

This plan is more comprehensive and includes the goals of the LSTA Five-Year Plan. This plan is outlined below with initiatives specified under each goal and objective. It will be reviewed and revised by the South Dakota State Library Board and SDSL staff after careful consultation with our consultant and in consultation with library leaders across the state. Final approval will be sought from the South Dakota State Library Board in May of 2020 with implementation starting immediately through December of 2023.

Continuing Efforts from Previous Strategic Plan

Organizational Effectiveness

The State Library will continue to emphasize library development, expanded online collections, and improved research services to state government. The State Librarian and the Library Board, working with the Secretary of Education and DOE staff, work to ensure that existing resources are being effectively utilized and SDSL is adequately funded to meet our stated 21st century goals. A continued comprehensive State Library Board review of the state statutes governing SDSL and its correlating administrative rules is always necessary. (SDCL 14-1 and Education/Libraries, ARSD 24:30)

Work with Libraries to Integrate Data Systems and Expand Resource Sharing

Maximizing the value of resources devoted to libraries across the state entails a collective effort to link libraries of all shapes and sizes on an integrated information system. The State Library will continue to explore ways to integrate more libraries into a common system. The only way to build a more equitable resource sharing model is to have an integrated information system in which all libraries and institutions can voluntarily and affordably participate.

The cost of traditional resource sharing continues to increase due to increasing transportation and postage costs. In fact, the cost to a library to borrow a book for a single interlibrary loan transaction exceeds the price of purchasing the book. The State Library will continue to work with the library and school communities to educate librarians and classroom teachers about the responsible use of interlibrary loan and the information readily available through ever-expanding statewide electronic resources.

Build Awareness among State Employees

The State Library will continue to work with state agencies to improve their knowledge of services offered and to make it easy and convenient for state employees to access the State Library's resources.
