What needs to happen, is more education for new drivers, harsher punishments for distracted driving, and to remove the medians that restrict the amount of turning traffic. There is absolutely no reason a turning lane that has such a high volume of traffic, to be cut short because of a median. Highway 115 is just that, a highway, lowering the speed limit will just create another bottleneck in the area. All the money collected from residences water utilities for "Street lights", should be able to afford some flashing lights to alert distracted drivers that there is a busy intersection ahead.
