Board Member Updates:

Ryan Groeneweg: USD Center for Disabilities just concluded the Special Education Conference with nearly 600 participants in Sioux Falls. Next year's conference will be in Rapid City on March 18-19th at the Monument.

Kellie Hauglid: She is a federal Vocational Rehabilitation counselor management for her caseload is done entirely remotely. She does a lot of vocational evaluations and has learned a lot in her time doing this. A lot of computer training is required, and many injured workers do not have computer skills. She is also an insurance agent in training at her mother's insurance agency.

Jeff Nelson: Operates restaurant at EROS data center and Sioux Falls vending at federal facilities. Jeff had a recent food inspection and received his 9th consecutive 100% review. He has been asked to provide some training for others in South Dakota since he scores so well on those inspections.

Chelle Hart: South Dakota Association of the Blind is raising money for a convention that they are hoping to hold at Joy Ranch in September 2024.

Richard Crawford: National Federation of the Blind (NFB) will be having its State Convention in Rapid City on April 26-27th at the Rushmore Inn. Board members are invited to attend. He has been spending one day a week at the Toy Lending Library – Braille alphabet cards and braille labels go with every package that goes out.

Kendra Ringstmeyer: She joined by phone but lost service and was unable to rejoin.

Kelly Deckert: He is about halfway through his master's program at SDSU in Marriage and Family Counseling. Has been working with SBVI Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor to find and maintain part-time employment while in school. A support group for blindness and visual impairment was started in Brookings. They meet monthly at the Bethel Baptist Church and ride service can be provided. Contact Kelly if you or someone you know would like to join the group. The group will be starting a Facebook page soon. He emailed a flyer.

Carla Miller: A federal requirement has resulted in additional services to families with transition-age youth. Carla's staff has been doing a lot of training and have a pilot program in the Sioux Falls school district with this training. The Sioux Falls school district pilot went well, and they are expanding the training to Madison school district, which will be hosted by Dakota State University. Saturday, April 13th SD Parent Connection is hosting a "Parent University" for a one-day training format instead of the 5-week training program.

Nichole Nelson: State testing at School for the Blind started this week. They are gearing up for Summer School and 5 students will be graduating in May. She is working on her master's program in School Counseling and her internship at the high school has led to some increased awareness of the School for the Blind.

Burdette Clifford: The Tribal VR program transitioned from Sinte Gleska to REDCO and now are transitioning to Community Service. He is looking to explore more for blind and visually impaired clients as they don't receive a lot of referrals in that area.

Cole Uecker: Petitions have appeared in many counties around the state that would require removal of electronic polling options, which would remove many accessibility options for polling. Disability Rights SD is educating counties on the impact this would have. Lawrence county recently decided against allowing the petition.

Pamela Fischer: She is preparing for NFB State Convention in April.

Residency Policy Revision: The policy is being revised due to a contact from Minnesota regarding a client attending the Rehab Center. Generally, it is fee for service, but the client is in close proximity to Sioux Falls and could be available for services. Gaye and Ronda had discussions with the Rehabilitation Services Administration (RSA), and they clarified what is allowed for language about residency requirements in the policy. The client must be present and available for services, but states cannot require that applicants be residents of the state. Examples include students coming to SD universities from other states, clients from other states who would benefit from training at Rehabilitation Center, Tribal members who live in Nebraska but are available to participate in services within South Dakota. Individuals must be able to legally work in the United States. Cole Uecker made a motion to approve Program Guide DRS/DSBVI 2024-01. Kellie Hauglid seconded. Motion carried.
